Pozzi Captures Second World Title In Dramatic Fashion

by Joe Kusek

Brittany Pozzi was in no mood to talk entering the final round of the Wrangler National Finals Rodeo.

The previous nine rounds of barrel racing during the Wrangler NFR had been an emotional roller coaster. From the high of winning two go-rounds to the devastating low of knocking over a barrel in seventh round when she switched to Stitch, who used to be her main mount. The Wrangler NFR was coming to a close and Pozzi was holding on tight to her lead in the WPRC world standings.

Now it came down to this: The final round of the WNFR to determine the world champion. Pozzi knew she would need a little help to win her second world title. The mathematical possibilities would make an accountant dizzy.

And the 25-year-old Victoria, Texas cowgirl didn't want to know any of them.

"It was don't mess with Brittany, don't freak her out," Pozzi said of the understanding of her strong support group of family and friends.

Pozzi filled her day in Las Vegas with some shopping and taking care of her horses.

But Pozzi's competitive curiosity finally got the best of her.

An hour before the 10th and final round at the Thomas and Mack Center, Pozzi was frantically calling those same friends and family to find out the different scenarios that faced her before the final barrel racing run.

"I couldn't take it anymore," Pozzi said with a laugh. "I was calling people, 'Talk to me.' I had to know."

What she needed, along with another solid run aboard her horse Duke, was some help from two-time world champion Sherry Cervi. Cervi had to bump 2008 world champion Lindsay Sears out of first place for the average for Pozzi to win the coveted gold buckle.

"I was leaning over the railing watching Sherry's run," Pozzi said of being a very interested spectator.

Cervi would edge Sears by a scant five-hundredths of a second (139.01 to 139.06) for her second WNFR average title. The 12th one out and the last of the three in contention (Sears, Cervi and Pozzi), Pozzi delivered a solid 13.81-second run to place third in the round and to pick up a check totaling $10,228.

Sears placed fifth for $4,423.

"I knew, I knew," Pozzi said of the final numbers.

It also put her an important third in the average, which was worth another $28,197.

Pozzi had her second world championship in three years in one of the most dramatic world title races in WPRC history.

Pozzi won the world title by $7,091 over Sears. Pozzi finished with $279,434. Sears was second with $272,343, while Cervi jumped from seventh to third in the final world standings with $219,628. It is the first time in WPRC history that three barrel racers won more than $200,000 in a single season.

"It's terrible that someone's bad luck is your fortune," Pozzi said of Sears falling one place in the average.

The three combined to win six go-rounds at the WNFR and a total of $400,793 over the 10 rounds.

Cervi was the high-money winner not only among all barrel racers but of any competitor with $146,100 followed by Sears with $131,125 and Pozzi with $123,569.

A total of 10 barrel racers won over $103,000 during the 2009 season.

The most going to Pozzi.

"I'm more excited about this time than when I won the first one," said an ever-smiling Pozzi. "Last time (2007), it was a lot of pressure and it was just like, 'Whew,' it's over. This year, it was a race. It was exciting.

"I'm pretty proud of myself, I'm not going to lie."

Pozzi came to Las Vegas with a $14,000 lead over Sears in the WPRC world standings.

Pozzi won 13 barrel racing titles at rodeos in eight states, along with four in Canada. She also won the year-end Canadian Pro Rodeo Association barrel racing championship in November.

After a slow winter, Pozzi pocketed $29,372 during the lucrative Fourth of July run, the most of any barrel racer and second-most for any competitor in professional rodeo.

"I credit most of the Fourth of July run to Stitch. He loves those big outdoor pens," said Pozzi, of her 12-year-old gelding who's registered name is Sixth Vision. It was Stitch who carried Pozzi to the world title in 2007 and a runner-up finish in 2008.

However, when it came time for the WNFR, Pozzi opted for Duke, a six-year-old gelding who's registered name is Yeah Hes Firen.

"I know what people were saying, 'How can you get off a championship horse?'" Pozzi said. "I had ridden 20 rounds at the WNFR on Stitch without hitting a barrel."

But Pozzi also understood that Duke would operate better in the tighter confines of the Thomas and Mack Center.

"Duke has a very different style," Pozzi explained. "When you lead him in, he stands up. But he is just so quick, snappy around the barrel. He tries hard all the time. When he stubs his toe, he tries even harder."

Duke was fine in the arena, but outside, that was a different story.

"He's so wild. So hard to control. They were laughing at me when I was trying to warm him up," said Pozzi. "He's just ready to go."

Pozzi and Duke opened the WNFR with 1-2-2 finishes in the first three rounds. They missed out on the money in rounds four and six but placed third in round five.

Pozzi decided to switch horses for the seventh round, bringing out Stitch. "Duke is just six, he needed a rest," Pozzi said of the decision.

But Stitch and Pozzi bumped a barrel, putting her world title hopes in jeopardy.

"When I first hit the barrel, I thought, 'Oh no, we're not going to win the world,'" recalled Pozzi. "I was kind of a wreck. It was such a great race with myself, Lindsay and Sherry. It was just one of those races where it was going to be who screwed up first. And that was me.

"Then I found out I had moved just one place down in the average. I just had to calm down. A lot of things can happen over 10 rounds. I was nervous, but you can't let it get you down."

Pozzi went back to Duke for the eighth round and promptly won with a time of 13.77 seconds, her best run of the WNFR.

"The game plan worked perfectly," she said of resting Duke.

"I just didn't plan on knocking over the barrel. That wasn't the plan," she continued with another laugh. "Duke, I've just got so much confidence in him.

"I was not going to stress out until it was over. That was my way of dealing with it ... not thinking about it. Those last three rounds, there was no playing it safe."

Pozzi closed out the WNFR with a 1-2-3 finish in the final three rounds.

"I'm just so excited," she said. "I think it showed my ability to ride different horses and to win world titles on different horses."

She plans to compete at the winter rodeos around Texas, "They're pretty close to home, easy to get to," but then spend the spring working with her younger horses around home.

"I'll go back out hard during the summer," Pozzi said of her 2010. But it was time to savor 2009.

"It's been a great year."

Between 1976 and 1978, the method of choosing the World Champion Barrel Racer was changed to coincide with the method used by the Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association. The 15 barrel racers with the top earnings during the regular season qualified for the National Finals Rodeo, then held in Oklahoma City. The barrel racer who won the most money at the NFR alone was named the world champion. During the years this system was in use, the NFR champion was always different from the high money winner for the year.

Before 1976 and since 1979, the world champion has been determined by total season earnings, including both regular-season and NFR earnings.
